

Christmas Seals Began In 1904

Christmas seals, the seasonal reminder of the fight to stamp out tuberculosis, have been with us since 1904.

The idea was conceived by a Danish postal clerk in 1903, while mailing Christmas packages and letters. Einar Holboell mentioned the idea to his fellow workers and they thought it would be a great help in defraying the cost of fighting tuberculosis. The idea reached King Christian, who approved, and the image of Queen Louise appeared on the first seals in 1904.

A Danish-born American, Jacob Rila sold the idea to the American public in a 1907 magazine article and a Red Cross worker, Miss Emily Blaisell, started the first American sales that year.

May the Spirit of Christmas abide with you and fill your heart with peace and happiness in all the days to come.

QUIET COUNTRY LANDSCAPE COVERED WITH SNOW is traditional vision of Christmas cherished by most folks. Even in climes where snow never falls, dreams of a white Christmas dance in the heads of young and old. With a little imagination, Christmas is always a winter wonderland.

One Holiday Has Many Rituals

Though Christmas comes but once a year, there is certainly no one and only way to celebrate it. In addition to the many customs that are generally shared, lighted lights, trees, gifts, Santa, prayer and feasting of the holiday are as varied and numerous as the communities and families involved.

Often the history and culture of a community is the inspiration for the way it celebrates Christmas. In other cases the "customs" are consciously developed, in an effort to express the spirit of the season. It doesn't take long for these community projects to become well-loved, even "old-fashioned" traditions.

Volumes could be filled with an account of interesting community Christmases, each of them different. A few are summarized below.

"Santa's Land, U.S.A."

The building is set against a background of pine trees, in the foothills of Vermont's Green mountains. The large letters "S. C." on the chimney identify it as Santa's residence.

In New Orleans

Carol sings are a traditional part of the holiday season in New Orleans. Many of them are held across the street from St. Louis cathedral. This historic cathedral in the French Quarter is a focal point for the community's religious observances of Christmas.

Here youthful carolers from a private elementary school, La Petite Ecole, convene to sing the familiar songs, in both French and English.

"Christmas Tree Lane"

Important part of the holiday season in California is the famous ceremony of "Christmas Tree Lane" at Altadena. Huge cedar cedars border a public thoroughfare in this city, and at Christmas it is transformed into "Christmas Tree Lane." The trees are lit with thousands of bulbs, turned on at dusk on Christmas Eve, and motorists celebrate the spectacle by driving slowly along the lane.

"City of Candlelight"

Richmond — City of Candlelight! has been the Christmas theme for Richmond, Va., for the past five years.

Taking the cue from Colonial Williamsburg, Richmond sought to initiate the rebirth of an old-fashioned Christmas tradition by urging residents and organizations to "place an electric candle in every window."

In French Canada

In French-Canadian homes, one of the highlights of Christmas is the "Reveillon," a middle-of-the-night family feast, for adults. The meal is served after the return from midnight mass but the preparations start many weeks ahead.

Much of the food for the feast, nowadays, centers around turkey and trimmings. But the traditional dishes, including goose with nut stuffing, and such specialties as "tortures," or spicy pork pies, are still prepared for the Reveillon.

Actors Go A-Caroling

Community caroling in Hanover, Va., for the past 10 years has been provided by a group of actors from Barksdale theatre and friends.

Moving about the town in red costumes and carrying lighted candles, the carolers concentrate on houses with children and elderly people. They approach the houses singing "Jingle Bells," render two more carols, and move away singing "We Wish You

Tinsel

Tinsel on the Christmas tree began, so legend says, when spiders covered with webs a tree that had been decorated by a mother for her many children.

To reward the woman for her goodness to her children, the Christ Child changed the spider webs to gleaming silver.

PAY THE PRICE

"Penny-wise, pound-foolish." This common old expression explains why many fishermen constantly complain about "never having any luck."

Most anglers invest considerable sums in rods and reels, then fail to pay the price in time that's necessary to catch fish, observe the experts.

The facts of successful fishing are simple: you must fish where the fish are. Most of the time that's right down on bottom among the rocks and brush that inevitably take a heavy toll in plugs and jigs and other hardware.

Loss of tackle is part of the price of fishing. And the willingness to pay this tariff often separates the amateur from the pro. The latter has learned from long experience that worrying about the well-being of a lure is false economy.

Fortunately, not all plugs that get hung up are lost. A careful angler usually can shake them free; the use of a lure retriever will account for most of the others. All that's lost is a few minutes of casting time.

When you start snagging lures, you probably start catching fish.

May you enjoy Christmas as much as we have. Our hearty thanks!

Helicopter Pilots Give To Family

A tragedy-struck Dale County family has been given an assist by a graduating class of helicopter pilots at the Army Aviation School.

The 55 men in Officers' Rotary Wing Aviator Course 63-7 voted to give their party funds to the Henry Langford family of Midland City. Eleven members of the family were killed December 7 when their station wagon was struck by a train on the outskirts of the community.

The money was originally set aside by the class for a graduation party that was cancelled because of the mourning for President Kennedy. The class had received the $165 as a dues refund for having 100 per cent membership in the Army Aviation Association of America.

The check was presented by the class leader, Captain Rex Peterson of Rexburg, Idaho, to Midland City Mayor Johnnie Daniel during the class graduation today.

Mr. Brown expressed the appreciation of the town and the Langford family for the generosity of the Army Aviators.

Death Claims Many During Holidays

The closing hours of Christmas are saddened for many Americans as deaths on the nation's highways continued at a mounting pace.

As the midweek two-day holiday neared its end, the count of traffic fatalities in the United States stood at 243, far above a toll for a recent nonholiday period of equal length.

The current count started at 12:01 a.m. Tuesday and ends at midnight Wednesday.

The National Safety Council made no preliminary estimate of the number of persons that could be killed in traffic during the 48-hour period.

During last year's Christmas holiday, a four-day period, there were 646 traffic deaths, second highest on record for a four-day Christmas holiday.

During the trip, Governor Wallace plans to visit with leading industrialists in the Western states and urge them to bring new industry to Alabama. He will also appear on numerous

City Officials Host At Annual Dinner

Officials of the city were hosts at a Christmas dinner on Friday night, December 13th. This is an annual affair and is given in appreciation for services rendered to the city by various boards and individuals who serve without remuneration.

Attending this affair were city employees and their wives and husbands, members of the Housing Authority, Industrial Development Board, City School Board, Hospital Board, City Planning and Zoning Board, members of the Fire Department, Police Department, publishers of The Elba Clipper, owners of the Elba Radio Station, ministers of the city and their wives.

The dinner was held in the Elba High School cafeteria.

Wallace To Tour Western States In Industry Campaign

Governor George C. Wallace will tour five Western states in January on a trip that will combine industry-hunting and six speeches on college campuses to explain the South's viewpoint.

The Governor will speak at Colorado State University on January 9, University of California at Los Angeles on January 10, University of Oregon on January 13, and the University of Washington on January 14.

It took Elgin Parrish, of Ozark, two shots to bag the largest deer ever killed on the Fort Rucker reservation. The 10-point, 225-pound deer was brought down at Lake George, near Hanchey Army Helipad.

PROGRESS CONTINUES AT ELBA COUNTRY CLUB

Progress is being made each day at the Elba Country Club. At present the dam is near completion. Overflow pipes have been placed and all it lacks are little finishing touches and then turn the cut-off valve and all will be ready for the lake to be filled. The filling of the lake will begin about the middle of January. Arrangements are being worked out with the State Conservation Department for the stocking of the pond with fish. The club house is now under construction and it is anticipated to be completed around the middle of February, with weather permitting. At present the floor has been poured and steel beams have been put in place. Monday it was reported that the end walls were beginning to take shape and the fireplace had been completed. The clubhouse will have an eight foot fireplace at one end where seven foot logs can be burned. This is one of the most attractive portions of the clubhouse.

The golf course has been roughed out and work has begun on the trees and greens. Arrangements have been made for additional work to begin January for the completion of the golf course. The golf committee reports that the course will be completed and ready for play in late spring. Much work has been done on this project by individuals during their spare time.

The swimming pool project reports that final plans have been made on the pool and that a contract for it will be let in the very near future. The pool will be a large one which will accommodate many people.

The tennis courts will be developed during the spring. These are to be lighted courts for night play. Looks like all facilities will be completed by spring with the work progressing as it is. Visitors are welcome at any time to go and take a look at this project.

HELPING HAND

A $165 check is given by Captain Rex Peterson to Mayor Johnnie Daniel of Midland City, Alabama, to help the Henry W. Langford family which lost 11 members in an auto-train crash 10 days ago. The money was a gift from members of Officers' Rotary Wing Aviator Course 63-7 which graduated today. Watching the presentation is John Brown, a member of the town council.

An attachment fitted in her mouth enables Ann to draw and to use an electric typewriter. She draws beautiful Christmas cards and letter paper that are much in demand.

Ann is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Vaughan of Jacksonville, Florida. She is a granddaughter of the late Mrs. Eva Vaughan and a niece of Mrs. T. A. Goodwin of Florida, who were reared in Coffee County.

Ann is 34 years old.

Red Carpet
Rolled Out
To S.S. Class

Mrs. Pancy Collier and Mrs. Rufina Grimes were hostesses to the Gladys Dorsey Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church Thursday evening at the Collier home. A delicious supper was served buffet style, and the guests were seated at tables for four.

The living and dining rooms held pretty Christmas arrangements. The red carpet was literally rolled out for the occasion. A strip of red carpet extended from the front steps through the foyer.

Mrs. Edna Brunson conducted a business session during which Mrs. Myrtle Cain told how she and her committee had bought a complete outfit of clothing for a worthy child.

Mrs. Collier presented gifts from the class to the teachers, Mrs. George Houtt and Mrs. Will Kendrick.

Miss Mattie Mae Bullard is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Phil Chrysler in Panama City, Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Fuller were among the guests at a Christmas supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Danford in Enterprise Saturday night.

We regret to report that Mrs. Alice Gibbs suffered a stroke early last Saturday A.M., and at the time this is written, she is in a serious condition at Elba General Hospital.

Mrs. Minnie Alice Cox and son, Joey, of Wilkesboro, N. C., are guests this week in the home of Mrs. Cox's mother, Mrs. H. J. Clark, Sr.

Miss Linda Crook spent Friday and Saturday in Birmingham. While there she attended the wedding of Bobby Pettus and Wanda Gaskin.

Household Hints
Homemakers can save valuable kitchen minutes during the holiday season by thawing frozen turkey in the refrigerator. It takes about two days for large turkeys and at least overnight for smaller ones.

Don't sit on the sill to wash even a first floor window. Play it safe and use a ladder. Check the way you "set" the ladder, too, be sure the spreader is fully extended and the footing is safe.

Stories Behind Words
by William S. Penfield

Adam's Apple
The Adam's apple is the common name for the projecting thyroid cartilage in the throat. Everybody has this cartilage. It is more noticeable in men than in women, and more noticeable in some men than in others.

The Old Testament tells the story of Adam's eating the forbidden fruit, popularly supposed to have been an apple. Centuries ago the legend arose that a piece of the apple stuck in Adam's throat, causing the projection in all men's throats.

Through this legend the projecting thyroid cartilage acquired the name "Adam's apple."

DEAR JANE: What should you do with a lazy, sloopy, no-good husband who won't hold a job and depends on me to bring home the bacon? I took him for better or worse, but it's sure been much worse than better. -JUST PLAIN TIRED pany. Each year he says he plans to take me; then at the last minute he finds there are not enough funds. Yesterday I learned that the boss expects me to go along. Do you think my husband is up to something? - MRS. X

DEAR MRS. X: I can't say for sure about your husband; however, you may wish to keep this in mind: "A delegate at large is a man who attends a convention without his wife."

DEAR JANE: I have a brute for a husband, who does nothing to support our five children and me. Sometimes he is gone for three days at a time, and when he comes home he abuses us in his drunken rages. Once he even brought one of his women friends into our home, and insisted that she could stay all night. I've had it. What should I do? - DISTRESSED my wife. If something can't be done about her self pity, I will have to leave her. She is driving me crazy. How many times I have said to myself, "Nobility cares for me, and the sooner I die the better." Should I leave her, or is there some way I can stop her from doing this? HARRIED HUSBAND

DEAR HARRIED: I once knew a woman like this. It became so bad that her sister one day shocked her by replying, "I think you are right." This was a drastic treatment. But the self-pitying woman was never heard to make the remark again. Self-pity is poisonous and certainly requires drastic measures. Perhaps you should try something like this. But don't leave her; she needs your help.

DEAR JANE: There is a girl in my school who is very jealous of me. She tells unkind and untrue stories about me. The latest is that I am pregnant. What can I do? - AGE 16

DEAR AGE 16: Avoid her as you would the plague. There isn't much you can do about her latest lie, except hide your time. Time will prove that her tale is false.

Electric heaters collect dust, lint and cobwebs when not in use. Be sure to clean them before putting them into service for the winter.

DEAR JANE: I am having a real problem about my marriage. It is just about on the rocks. We realize the seriousness of what is happening to our home, but for some reason we can't seem to stop it. My husband and I are continually fighting, fussing and feuding. How can we stop it? - CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: Both you and your husband need to consider very seriously the gravity of the situation in which you find yourselves. Set up some rules, and both vow to abide by them. Here are some suggestions: (1) Know the sources of friction and handle them with care; (2) Find a safe method of letting off steam—go for a walk, beat the rugs, make a pile, chop firewood; (3) Exercise self control, especially when you realize you are having one of your bad days; (4) Limit the quarrel to the issue at hand; don't drag out old skeletons; (5) Reach a decision together, then act on it; (6) Never let the sun go down on a quarrel.

DEAR JANE: I am accustomed to saying to my daughter when she goes out on a date: "Have a good time, be good." One other day she replied: "Mother, make up your mind." I've begun to wonder if she may be serious about her reply. Is it not possible nowadays for young people to have a good time and yet do the right thing? - PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: It seems to me that your daughter is joking with you. Unless you have reason to believe otherwise, take it as such. Young people can have a good time and yet do the right thing. I'm convinced that they are not all as bad as some people would have us believe.

DEAR JANE: Three times now my husband has left me and our five children for another woman. Twice I forgave him and took him back; but now I have obtained a divorce from him. On the day the decree was final, he married the other woman. The decree stipulates that he is to help support the children; but this he refuses to do, although he is well able. He is in another state and claims that he is not subject to the decree. Is he right? - DISTRAUGHT

DEAR DISTRAUGHT: Get to your attorney right away. He will inform you on what procedure is necessary to see that your ex-husband takes care of those children.

DEAR JANE: Each year my husband gets an allowance paid trip to the annual convention of his company.

So that everything will seem to belong together when you redecorate, consider the color scheme, textures, patterns, finishes, sizes and shapes of everything that goes to furnish all the rooms of the home.

Food prices have been relatively stable in recent years, averaging only about two per cent higher in January 1960 than in January 1952. Other cost-of-living items increased almost 15 per cent over the same period.

DEAR JANE: I have a brute for a husband, who does nothing to support our five children and me. Sometimes he is gone for three days at a time, and when he comes home he abuses us in his drunken rages. Once he even brought one of his women friends into our home, and insisted that she could stay all night. I've had it. What should I do? - DISTRESSED

DEAR DISTRESSED: There are many marriages today which were apparently not made in heaven, but rather the reverse; and yours seems to fall in the latter category. It is never my policy to advise divorce through these columns; but how to trip the light fantastic.

DEAR 16: Knowing how to dance is no criterion for popularity. It is true that a boy who can dance would be true with girls who don't know how to dance. Personal traits and character have far more to do with one's popularity than a knowledge of how to trip the light fantastic.

Dewey Horton seemed to enjoy the time he spent in court. The prosecutor attorney had some trouble with him at first. He asked him if he was acquainted with any of the men on the jury. "Yes sir," said Dewey, "more than half of them." The lawyer demanded, "Are you willin' to swear that you know more than half of them?"

My Grandpa Jamie is right smart sometimes. The other day I heard him say, "These days you'd better think twice before you put your gun in the holster." "I know more than all of them put together," said Dewey. "I'm willin' to swear that I know more than all of them put together."

Effie Horton has been at odds with Constable Potter. "Too much stealin' goin' on around here, and you ain't doin' a thing about it," said Constable Potter. "I'm a firm believer in fightin' the enemy with his own weapons," she continued. "Really now, Constable Potter said calmly, 'Tell me, how long does it take you to sting a bee?'"

When the parson is conductin' a service and raises his arms, palms up, he means for us to stand; when he holds his palms down, that means to sit; but when he takes his watch out and lays it on the pulpit just before beginnin' his sermon, well, that don't mean a thing!

Mayor Clem Potter says he's in favor of raisin' our parson's salary, but he ain't in favor of payin' him overtime for his sermons.

The parson says some good things at times. Last Sunday he said that there are three books necessary for all church services: the Bible, the hymn book, and the pocket book. He invited us all to come back next Sunday and bring all three.

Farm Affairs

With Thomas C. Cassaday COUNTY AGENT

Coffee County farmers and home gardeners realize the importance of fertilizer in supplying the necessary plant nutrients.

This fact was emphasized again during the past year, said county agent, Tom Cassaday, this week. He pointed out that the county's farmers and gardeners used 24,000 tons of fertilizer materials containing the major plant nutrients—nitrogen, phosphorus, and potassium.

State-wide figures show that 1,003,275 tons of fertilizer were used last year, an increase of 18,392 tons over the year before.

"Through our fertilizer figures are impressive," said Cassaday, "many farmers and gardeners in Coffee County are still faced with the question of what kind of fertilizer to use and how much. Based on the soil samples tested from Coffee County last year, 69 fields out of a total of 646 tested, needed fertilizer containing equal amounts of phosphorus and potassium, such as 4-12-12 or 8-8-8. Three-hundred twenty-one (321) samples, however, needed fertilizer low in phosphorus and high in potash, such as 4-8-16 or 6-10-20.

Cassaday said soil testing is the only method for determining the fertilizer needed to do the best job. He urged farmers and gardeners to come by his office for information and supplies for soil testing.

Maximum production can be obtained from a forest by producing many products on the same area, such as posts, pulpwood, sawmills, poles, veneer and naval stores.

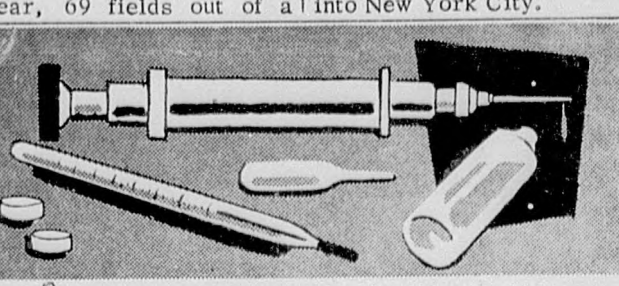

In 1959, over twice as many fresh fruits and vegetables were shipped from California to New York City than from New York State into New York City.

For more detailed information, see your county agent and ask for a copy of Extension Service circular No. 426 entitled, "Pecan Production."

Farm work doesn't end when the crop has been harvested. In fact, the job isn't completed until stalks and other residue are cut and returned to the soil, declares Dr. Walter Sowell, a soils expert.

"Early stalk destruction is a good conservation practice that reduced soil erosion and insects, helps control erosion and improves soil tilth for the following spring's crop," he says.

Dr. Sowell, an Auburn University Extension Service specialist, says fall-cut stalks will partially decay in time to add inland preparation in the spring. This would eliminate a lack of good soil texture for seedbeds.

'EKISTICS' is a new science to deal with staggering problems born of cities and the decay that threatens them. The word was coined by Greek city planner Constantine A. Doxiadis from the Greek word for settlement (oikismos). It means a multiple approach to fighting the deterioration of city living by experts in housing, economics, sociology, psychology, planning, art and philosophy. Epitomizing the scope of the problem are cities like Buenos Aires, Argentina, which in the last century has grown from 30,000 to 3,200,000, and Leopoldville, Congo, from 46,000 to 400,000 in less than 25 years.

HEMP, a plant fiber normally used for rope, can be made into dresses, report Swiss researchers who have developed a hemp fabric resembling cotton but much stronger. Philippine government officials hope the new fabric will provide a big new market for hemp, one of the country's major exports.

IMMUNITY Doctor E. Richard Harell, University of Michigan dermatologist, Youngsters before the age of 5 to 7 are usually "non-reactive" to the glossy-leaved nuisance, but the rash itself is a very common allergic reaction. Less common are similar reactions to carrot tops, delphiniums and primroses.

REPAIRMEN working on combustible gas containers can lighten their welding torches without fear of explosion with a carbon dioxide "gargling" technique, reports Cardox, Chicago. The CO₂ is pumped into the tank or pipeline to displace most of the explosive contents and mix with the rest to form an inert atmosphere.

TOOTH BANKS in which healthy teeth will be stored for later transplantation are envisioned by Doctor Miklos Cserfalvi, DDS, of Washington, D.C., who reports that he has performed the operation successfully a number of times. For a transplant, he says, the root structure of the donor tooth must be only partially developed and patients must avoid putting undue strain on the new tooth for at least three weeks.

EYEGASSES for chickens increase egg production, says Al Schriener, Santa Rosa, Cal., poultryman. The molded plastic contact lenses fit over the animal's eyeballs and are held in place by the lids, as in contacts for humans. Chicken lenses, however, cost only about three cents a pair compared with approximately $125 for a human pair and distort, not improve, vision. Wearing the glasses, Schriener says, the chickens, closely packed in big modern coops, can see to eat and drink - but not well enough to fight with their neighbors.

AMERICA could double its population and enjoy a still higher standard of living, says Director Karl Brandt of the Stanford Research Institute, Brandt, who maintains the globe is underpopulated, says that contrary to popular belief world food production has outpaced population gains in recent years. On a worldwide scale, he adds, there is overabundant space and opportunity to civilize and utilize the wilderness. Human resources, says Brandt, are "the only truly creative sources of wealth on this earth."

WANT TO CLEAN 32,000 fish an hour? Work at Texas A&M indicates this rate may be possible by dunking the fish in an enzyme bath that "digests" viscera, scales and eyes. Water rinses away the digested material. Object of the study is to permit use of fish waste for fertilizer.

WORLD OIL PRODUCTION totaled 8,798,000,000 barrels in 1962, a gain over 1961's 8,188,000,000 barrels. An oil barrel contains 42 gallons.

Iron Fisted Civil Rights

In a way, a person must take off his cap to the Administration for the way it has handled civil rights legislation. The bill now pending in the House of Representatives is, by far, more severe than its predecessors, yet the people believe it is a more moderate offering, a "watered-down" version. And that, by any measure, is no mean trick, making black into white, war into peace.

Every material restriction and every penalty that was incorporated in the first bill is to be found in the legislation now under consideration. Moreover, new powers have been granted the Attorney General.

What changes have been made—and many have been made—are to be found primarily in the bill's public accommodations section.

The Administration struck, for instance, the provisions which would have forced integration on doctors, lawyers and such. And it has changed the meaning of the language dealing with a Federal FEPC.

In excluding lawyers and doctors, the sense of the bill wasn't changed at all. All that happened is that two elements—two obnoxious elements—of the economy have been let off the hook. The bill's meaning, for the rest of the people, remains.

And the change in the FEPC is certainly much more encompassing than previously, not otherwise. Now, nearly every business is covered, whereas in the earlier bill only businesses accepting federal financial assistance were included.

This change was accomplished by amending the bill's definition of "interstate commerce" from the traditional concept and by broadening the federal FEPC to cover the new definition. It is worth noting the bill authorizes ten million dollars a year for the federal FEPC to hire federal inspectors to police business.

And the bill's provision which would bring the American educational system—public and private—under the control of the Federal government, that this provision in the bill, must also study Federal approved curriculum as it pertains to race and religion. Under this bill, if the President or an appropriate Federal agency believes a social studies book is inaccurate in matters of race or religion, Federal aid can be withdrawn from the school making use of the textbook, whether such school be public, private or parochial. Nor is the power contained in this bill a purely negative power. Those which have already accepted Federal funds, in some instances, can be compelled by the threat of foreclosures and blacklisting to meet the new standards.

Moreover, this bill gives—as the original bill did not—the power for the Attorney General to institute on his own motion, school integration suits, public facility suits, and federal financial assistance suits, not only against individuals but against states and local governments as well. In doing so, he instructed the members no amendments to it could be offered, no discussion would be allowed, no questions either asked or answered. Then, he told the clerk to read the bill. Hurlingly, the clerk did so; the chairman had a vote rattled off and preempted said the bill had received a do-pass. During much of this action, committee members were on their feet shouting for recognition, denouncing the chairman's highhandedness as unprecedented—as indeed it was. One committee member went so far as to repeatedly bang the desk with an ash tray in an effort to stop the "railroad" procedure. Later, the chairman was to apologize for his conduct. He said it had been "forced" upon him but he did not say by whom.

This was done in "executive session," which means the press and public were excluded.

While this action was taking place, a professional worker for the minority group pressing most forcefully for this bill, stood outside the committee's closed door and cried to reporters his people were being "sold out."

Sold out, indeed. Concomitantly, the Attorney General issued statements to the press that the bill now before the committee was a "more moderate version" than the earlier bill, that it was a stronger, harsher and more stringent than the subcommittee proposal for which it was substituted without consideration, debate or opportunity to amend.

Farm Briefs

Milk producers often find it difficult to maintain usual rates of production in early fall. The slump is mostly caused by the cows not getting enough feed after pasture crops become old, dried up and tough.

Bananas were first displayed in the U.S. in 1876 at the Philadelphia World's Fair. At that time, only the most daring could be persuaded to peel back the yellow skin and taste the meat of this exotic fruit.

Nitrogen does many things for a plant. It produces rapid growth, gives dark green color, increases yield of seed and fruit, and improves quality of forage crops.

HOW THEY FLY...

THE CHURCH FOR ALL...

ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest force on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Coffee County High School News

NEW BROCKTON

School is steadily progressing as students realize that it will soon be time for semester tests, but also that the Christmas holidays are almost here. The Senior Class took a very enjoyable and educational trip to Montgomery on December 2nd. The students were able to visit many of the historical sights in Alabama, among these were the Capitol, Kilby Prison, The Archives and History Building, the new Atomic hospital, and the Governor's mansion. It proved to be a very helpful and educational trip for each student.

The New Brockton gamecocks have an excellent season going this year, with a standing of five wins and one loss to Kinston. The gamecocks are proving to be very powerful again this year. They will participate in the tournament in Enterprise December 19, 20, and 21st. The gamecocks will take on Enterprise, Ozark, and Samson. The players and Coach Bryant Steele are to be commended for a very good season this far.

The P.T.O. held its regular December meeting on Thursday night. The Glee Club gave its annual Christmas program which was very impressive. The girls did a splendid job.

The county FFA meeting was held in New Brockton December 16th with the county president presiding. The program was given by the New Brockton chapter on the meaning of Christmas. Refreshments were served by the chapter in the school cafeteria.

All Coffee County teachers met in New Brockton Thursday, December 12th, for their regular inservice

Knight, James Lunaford, Ruth Bullard, Kathryn Kelley, Cathy Parker, Mena Stevens, Betty Jane Windham, Karlin Windham, Tommy Smith, Bill Thindol.

The New Brockton Senior Girls' 4-H Club met on December 16, 1963. The president, Jan Fillingim, called the meeting to order. Adella Wilson and Lib Hayes led the group in singing "Deck The Halls", after which a Christmas devotion, "Reverence for God", was given by Linda Brown. Evelyn Sawyer, the vice-president, led the Pledge of Allegiance to the American Flag and the 4-H Flag. Roll was called and the minutes were read by Linda Bowers, secretary. During the business session each girl chose her projects for the following year.

Mrs. Hutchinson, the Home Demonstration Agent showed a filmstrip, "Fun With Icing", which revealed ways to make different kinds of icings for cakes.

The meeting was adjourned until the January meeting.

The New Hope P.T.A. held its December meeting the first Thursday night of this month. A covered dish supper highlighted the occasion. A "Bake Sale" is being sponsored by the organization, and delicious Christmas cakes will be on sale at James Wilson's store from now until Christmas.

Patrons and teachers of the school are proud indeed of the basketball team this year. Mr. Leon Hornsby, coach and principal of the school, has had almost incredible success with the team, every scheduled game having been won by them thus far. With the junior high girls to boost the players on to victory, how can they lose?

One member of the faculty, Mrs. Dock Bragg, is recuperating from surgery which she underwent at Beard's Hospital in Troy during the Thanksgiving holidays. She will be back on the job within a few days.

The Christmas spirit is prevalent among the students. The classrooms are being artistically decorated, and names have been drawn for exchange of gifts. Christmas parties are being planned in each home room.

Mrs. Dean Helms was honored with a shower given by members of the faculty in the school library late in November. Mrs. Helms is on a three month's leave-of-absence from her duties. Mrs. Leon Hornsby is replacing Mrs. Helms as second grade teacher during her temporary leave.

Everyone is keeping his fingers crossed for fear of taking mumps. An epidemic is now rampant among the students. Many of the teachers have never had mumps, so the next school report may be entitled "The New Hope Faculty—A Bunch of Swell Heads."

During the last decade, about one-fourth of the milk produced each year has been consumed as butter, according to the National Dairy Council. Creamery butter, as contrasted to farm-churned butter, accounts for over 98 per cent of total consumption.

Motorist Paid More Than Ever In User Taxes

Motorists of Alabama have paid more than $405,000,000 in federal highway user taxes since the start of the Interstate Highway Program seven years ago, but 35.8 per cent of that money was not spent on highways, according to James J. Britton, Director of the Alabama Petroleum Council.

"U.S. Bureau of Public Roads figures show that between July 1, 1956, and December 31, 1962, the federal government placed only $260,295,000 of the highway user taxes paid by this State's motorists into the Highway Trust Fund," he said. "The remaining $145,395,000 was spent on projects having no connection with roads," he noted.

"Federal highway user tax revenues in other States met a similar fate with the result that U.S. motorists have paid $11 billion more than the amount which was spent for roads," he said.

"Motorists now are paying twice as high a federal gasoline tax as they were before the Interstate Highway Program began," Britton pointed out. The total state, federal and local gasoline tax in Alabama now amounts to an average of 12 cents a gallon, which is the highest in the Continental United States. Alaska, the only other State as high also has a combined tax of 12 cents a gallon.

"It is unfair to continue to collect gasoline and other taxes at these high rates when 40 per cent of the national total, about $1.8 billion a year, is withheld from the highway program," he said.

Some states also deprive their own highway programs of revenue by diverting State highway user taxes to non-highway projects, Britton pointed out.

Across the nation, this practice results in a loss to highways of $400 million a year.

Voters of Alabama and 27 other States, he added, have adopted amendments to their State Constitutions to protect highway funds against raids for non-highway purposes.

In concluding, Britton urged motorists to oppose attempts by governmental agencies to divert highway user taxes.
